HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

courage, devotion and patience, and the told the graduates they are expected to carry on this kind of a life.

He spoke tenderly of the motherhood of the nation, of mothers who have been dependent entirely upon that son who has gone forth to battle, knowing that he may not return, of the courage that the mother has shown, the sacrifice that she is making to her country and her fellow-beings, and to the graduates he said, "and you are asked to copy this kind of life."

The men of great capacity, those men who are giving their services to their country, known to us as the "dollar-a-year" men were spoken of highly, with the sacrifice they are making, and to the graduates again went the sentence, "and you are asked to copy this." And those who stay behind, go on living quietly, yet minister in a powerful way to the needs of their country and their fellowmen, those who keep up the morale, and this life he said is the kind of life you are asked to copy.

Service and sacrifice for fellowmen from start to finish of the address, it was different from many of times past. It's impression will be lasting, as the graduates turn his words over in their minds.

Monday evening Supt. and Mrs. A. F. Schultz entertained the seniors at their home, and Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the annual senior play was given in the high school auditorium. Both nights a good sized audience attended the show, which was very well rendered by the seniors.

Wednesday afternoon, the forty-two youngsters, given last week as graduates of the eighth grade, were promoted to the high school at the annual eighth grade promotion exercises. Rev. Duffey of the M. E. church gave the address to the youngsters, giving them a message full of thought, and which cannot but be most helpful to them, if the advice which he gave them is followed. Following the address the certificates of promotion were given out by Supt. Schultz.

Tonight at the high school auditorium the commencement exercises will be held, at which time the thirty-six graduates of the class of 1918 will receive their diplomas.

Dr. Samuel Dickie, president of Albion college will give the commencement address.

Anniversary of the Battle Cruiser Yosemite in Spanish-American War

On Friday, June 28, will be observed in numerous Michigan homes the anniversary of an event which looms large in the memories of many people in the state. The day marks the passage of twenty years since that twenty-eighth of June, 1898, when the nine officers and 260 men of Michigan's Naval Militia marked the climax of their service in the United States navy by destroying the "Antonio Lopez," a steamer that was bringing war munitions from Europe for the aid and comfort of the Spanish armies in Cuba and Porto Rico.

The history of this important episode of the Spanish-American war is contained in the book, "The Log Of The Yosemite," written by Truman H. Newberry. Newberry was then a lieutenant on the cruiser Yosemite, engaged

In blockade service off the port of San Juan de Porto Rico. Since then, and mainly because of the splendid showing he made in this service, he has served as secretary of the navy under President Roosevelt and is now a commander of the Third Naval District and candidate for the United States senate. The following excerpts are taken from the report of Commander W. H. Emory, who was in charge of the Yosemite during the fight, as it appears in the book:

"I have the honor to report that about 5:30 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, June 28, we sighted a steamer to the westward, about two miles distant. . . . The Yosemite was headed for the stranger. . . . Seeing our intention the steamer was instantly headed for the shore and beached on the reef, six miles to the westward of Morro Castle. . . . The Yosemite remained in the vicinity of this position for some time, during which shell and shrapnel were discharged at the Spaniard. When it was deemed that the steamer was sufficiently disabled the Yosemite steamed for a Spanish cruiser and gunboat which had come to the relief of the beached steamer. During this period, I was much surprised to find that the guns of Morro and the water battery below it had the exact range of the Yosemite's position and were effective at that distance. . . . Many projectiles of large calibre passed over the Yosemite. . . . and although the enemy made excellent line shots, some very near to the ship, she was not struck once. . . . Our fire seemed to be very effective and made the Spanish cruiser join her consort, the gunboat, in seeking shelter under the guns of Morro. . . . The spirit and behavior of the officers and crew was in every way highly commendable."

With Commander Newberry and many others of the old crew of the "Yosemite" again serving their country, there will be no official celebration of the anniversary this year. However, all of the survivors of the battle of twenty years ago and their families will live the stirring day over again in memory.
